AAR: Army Confirms Sexual Harassment of Slain Soldier

Message From MABPRO:

MABPRO offers our condolences to the families that have lost loved ones due to these horrible tragedies that have been taking place recently in our nation.

The purpose of this assessment is to provide information that will hopefully help people regain their confidence and sense of safety in public. There is no guaranteed fix, but we can, however, do our best to educate ourselves on what to do if we ever found ourselves in the midst of a crisis.

On April 22, 2020, Spc. Vanessa Guillen was sexually harassed inside an armory at Fort Hood, Texas. Her family said she did not report those incidents for fear of retaliation, though a U.S. Army investigation later found that she reported being sexually harassed twice.

In late summer of 2019, Guillen was the victim of sexual harassment after her superior tried to solicit her in Spanish to participate in a threesome. Guillen's superior was constantly harassing her.

This wasn't the first incident and complaint that has occurred in that facility. They didn't do anything about the sexual harassment complaints until Vanessa Guillen was murdered. Vanessa's story was a wake up call to the facility. The family didn't stop until they found the aggressor that murdered Vanessa Guillen. The environment in Fort Hood could have influenced the superior, knowing that many cases had happened but no actions had been taken.
